

Die Kunst meiner Mitmenschen nachzufragen

Beitrag von „Meike.“ vom 5. November 2005 23:52

Animagus:

BRÜLLLLLLLL!!!! Wie gut ich das kenne! Das geht auch auf Englisch, da sogar noch besser, weil die Lieben ja immer nur keywords hören (wollen) - und ich könnte manchmal in die Tischkante beißen (die Hausverwalter wundern sich schon über die Nagespuren an meinem Lehrertisch)!

H: "Please copy the topics off the board, and start the discussion task right away!"

(alles kritzelt)

S: "Mrs X, are we supposed to answer the questions?"

H: "No you are supposed to copy them, choose one, and discuss them in your group!"

S: "Mrs X, should we form groups then?"

H: "Well, I personally don't know how you could work in groups otherwise!"

S: "And then we should answer the questions in our group?"

H: "NO! You PICK one, then you discuss ONE of the questions!"

S: "Should we copy the questions we won't answer, too?"

H: "YEheheheess, and you are not supposed to ANSWER them, but to choose ONE and DISCUSS it!"

S: "But you said that we should copy all of them!"

H: "Yes, I did!! Copy ALL, discuss ONE!"

S: "In a group?"

H: "Heavens!! COPY them alone, DISCUSS ONE in a group!"

S: "And how should we answer the rest?? Alone or in our group?"

H: (despairing) "For Gods sake, NOT at all - just copy them!!!!"

S (in despair, too): "BUT YOU SAID we should discuss them!"

H: "No, I didn't!"

S: "Yes, you did!!"

H: (gnaws the table's edge...)

Manchmal weißte echt nicht, wofür du ihnen das Abiturzeugnis in die Hand drückst...