Zitat

Yes, it is actually fiction — literature — instead of the usual directives or analyses or information material on and by the European Union.

Initiated by the European Commission's Directorate-General for Translation, this book is a selection of literary works by young authors from the ten new Member States. Each piece is in its original language on left pages, with the translation into English on right pages.

A unique publication, and an unusual contribution to the biggest enlargement in EU history.
