Jackie Kay, "In My Country" (1993)

(Jackie Kay is black and Scottish)

walking by the waters
down where an honest river
shakes hands with the sea,
a woman passed round me
in a slow watchful circle,
as if I were a superstition;
or the worst dregs of her imagination,
so when she finally spoke
her words spliced into bars
of an old wheel. A segment of air.
Where do you come from?
"Here", I said. "Here. These parts."

Zadie Smith, White Teeth (2000, S.319)

Irie and Millat are second generation British citizens:

"You look very exotic. Where are you from, if you don't mind me asking?"

"Willesden", said Irie and Millat simultaneously.

"Yes, yes, of course, but where originally?"

"Oh," said Millat, putting on what he called a bud-bud-ding-ding accent.

"Your are meaning where from am I originally."

"Whitechapel", said Millat, pulling out a fag. "Via the Royal London Hospital and the 207 bus."
