

Zula biling.

Beitrag von „Tina_NE“ vom 6. Januar 2005 13:05

Hi Kiki,

noch eine Idee ist die Mailingliste des Bildungsservers Hessen. Guck einfach mal nach. Ab und zu ist da was Gutes dabei!

Ich hab heute folgendes im Postfach gefunden. WEiss aber nicht, ob das was für dich ist:
Stand unter der Rubrik "Science":

- Sense of Smell

Most people could stand to know a bit more about the sense of smell, and this website is a good place to start. The basic mission of the Sense of Smell Institute is "to be a leading global resource relating to the sense of smell and its importance to human psychology, behavior and quality of life".

Visitors to the site can start by visiting the "Smell 101" section of the site, where they can begin to learn about the sense of smell and the benefits of fragrance. The "Smell Resources" area is particularly well-developed and contains a virtual library of scientific articles which relate to human olfaction and a selection of recommended books on the subject, divided into thematic areas such as sensuality and perfumery. For the uninitiated, there is also a helpful glossary of olfaction available here. Finally, visitors can also learn about the events and exhibits that constitute the annual National Sense of Smell Day.

<http://www.senseofsmell.org/index.php>

Is vielleicht nix für deine Arbeit im Moment, aber vielleicht hilfts ja mal.

Lieben Gruss,

Tina