

An die Englischlehrer: prepositions in relative clauses..

Hmmm..das erinnert mich fatal an einen Witz aus Amerika...

This girl from a village out in the country gets a scholarship to a big university up North. She attends a social function to get to know all the other scholars, and to meet the officials from the university. Nobody talks to her, and she feels rather rejected.

Eventually, she walks up to an older lady and asks:"So, where are you from?"

The lady answers, "Well, where I'm from, you don't end sentences with prepositions!"

Says the girl, "Oh my, I'm so sorry. So, uhm, where are you from, BITCH???" 😊

Sorry..kann dir gerade auch nicht mehr helfen...

gestresste Grüße,
dat Tichen
