Hallo Kelle!

Das ist ja fast so wie das Assoziationsspiel... 😊

What would you do if....

...you met Robbie Williams/Paris Hilton/Helge Schneider in the supermarket?

...you woke up in the morning and find a beautiful stranger next to you?

...you were invited to a Tupper-Party/a party of people you don't like?

...you could meet Angela Merkel/Mr. Bush/politician xy for an hour?

...you were offered the opportunity to stay a year abroad?

...you find your boyfriend kissing another girl?

...you find a big fat spider on your cushion?

...you watched your cat catching the fish out of your neighbour's pond and having a nice meal afterwards?

...you find a skeleton in the closet?

...you had a slight crash with the car that you've just borrowed from your Dad?

...you were a painter/an actress/a musician/a great genius?

...you were asked to hold a longer speech on your Mom's 50th birthday party(you've got a big family and she's expecting 105 people)?

Oder:

You are invited for a romantic dinner. Your date provides you with delicious haggis which you unfortunately can't stand. What would you - as a polite person - do?

You've just won a trip to Venezuela/the Carribeans/country xy. But you can only go there if you catch the plane in exactly one hour (and it takes you half an hour to go to the airport). What would you do?

So, das ist alles was mir grad einfällt. Und ich hatte auch schon zwei Bierle, so please excuse if I have Fehler eingebaut 😊
