Ich habe gerade gegooglet: "I hate passé simple".

Erster Treffer:

This is more of a rant than anything else, so if that bothers you please just leave and spare me the downvotes.

I started reading harry potter in french since it was highly recommended by so many people. Now I understand that passé simple was very common and is something I should learn but its so frustrating because I would much rather be practicing passé composé. And I will never use passé simple myself.

So im just curious if anyone else shares my frustration or has any tips? I figure that at least I dont have to be able to use it but only recognize it which makes it easier to deal with.
