Wie genau, glaubst du, läuft "Direkte Instruktion" in 95% der Fälle im realen Schulbetrieb ab?

Dann verliert es aber die Effektstärke. Aus Hattie (2023): "When VL1 [Visible Learning 1] was first published, the developers of Direct Instruction (DI) emailed a nice message about how pleased they were to see support for their model. I replied but suggested that given that the method often gets bad press and is often woefully misunderstood, maybe a name change would help. There were no further emails; I presumed this idea was not welcomed. But Direct Instruction, when implemented with fidelity, is most effective (Hornby & Greaves, 2022). It must not be confused with didactic teaching, scripted lessons, or an overemphasis on surface knowing." Er beschreibt im Anschluss 7 Schritte von Direct Instruction. Nur in dieser Form wird die Effektstärke von 0,56 erreicht.

P.S.: Die Methode "Lecturing" hat eine Effektstärke von -0,26, "Background Music" schneidet da mit 0,08 besser ab...
